

Local Food Cards

44 photos to inspire people to share funny stories and tales about food.

This has proved to be a really great intergenerational tool. It helps people to find out more about each other, and what they have in common.

Ben, engagement professional

It's funny how many memories people share about grandparents food like my Grandad's famous Gammon.

Freya, young activist

Penny, expert by experience

We put pictures of all kinds of food in the pack, plus a joker card to let people talk about any food they want.

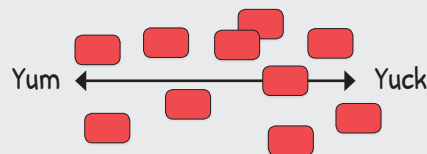

Suggestions for use...

Worst EVER

- Laid out on a table, these cards are great for "find your favourite food."
- For a twist, why not ask people to find a card for their most disastrous meal?
- Strong views can help start discussions about difference.

Scatter Plot

- Arrange the cards against one or two axes like a graph.
- Agreements and differences help a group connect.

Share your #foodstories

If these tools work for you, please share a photo or a message on Instagram, Twitter, or email

Icebreaker Game

- Play the game ideas in the pack to get people telling stories about food memories.
- After the game you could bring out the Talking Food Card Deck to talk more about food and food poverty.

★ You'll find two other ideas for games in the deck.

